

Parent Testimonies

August 2012, what a big month! Our oldest was off to college. As a mom you pray that you have done everything and that she is ready, but of course you worry. Little did I know how my worries would be erased, by good communication and the leadership of the OSU Office of Fraternity & Sorority Affairs.

My daughter was very involved in high school: student council, leadership positions, volunteering, etc. So of course she wanted to join a sorority; she loves a challenge. Well I was terrified for her...what if no one likes her like I do? Turns out I was the only person that was worried; my daughter was so busy that she never had time to worry!

Every night I received an email detailing every little thing the girls were going through that week. The process is so well thought out, not many details are missed.

It is not a simple process by any means, but I would encourage anyone who has a daughter to look into a sorority in the fall. It is a well-organized program, run by smart young women who are available to help you out at any time, day or night.

By the end of the week my daughter had a new built in family of sisters at college. She is blossoming into quite the strong young woman. When we went to see her last weekend, she said, "You know mom, no matter which house I had ended up in, I truly believe I would have been happy!" For me, that says it all!

Mother of a Panhellenic Council Sorority Woman
Authored on October 19, 2012